Self-Release/CD Baby • Minutes: 3:10

Lady J Huston presents a different twist on the pandemic with her composition, "Corona You Make Me Sick". The song speaks to the human spirit and helps to release the frustration through song & dance. In the end, you will feel like partying the night away and ready to embrace our new normal. The song was created in response to a songwriting competition sponsored by the National Blues Museum (St. Louis) which Lady J was the 1st place winner. She has been a dedicated advocate for African Americans amidst the pandemic with several PSAs on local CBS News, Mercy Hospital, and in the Associated Press.

BACKGROUND: Lady J Huston is an internationally acclaimed Vocalist, Trumpeter, Songwriter, Recording Artist and Entertainer Extraordinaire. She possesses music stylings of Soul, Blues, Jazz, & Gospel with an amazing vocal range transcending from tenor to first soprano. Her career began in her roots of St. Louis, MO, as a child prodigy dancer on shows with her mother Loyce Huston. While taking a break from college as a music major, she landed her first national artist gig performing with the Father of Rock 'n Roll Piano, Johnnie Johnson! Following this stint, she began touring with Blues & Rock 'n Roll Hall of Famer, Albert King as the opening act, trumpeter and eventually music director; appearing on shows with legends such as: B.B. King, Millie Jackson, John Lee Hooker, Muddy Waters, Albert Collins, Etta James, Robert Cray & more!

Lady J resumed her music studies at Howard Univ. (DC) on the Dean's List. She relocated to Los Angeles & earned a B.S. in Business Admin. Las Vegas, NV became her new home for 25 years where she won multiple entertainment awards, appeared on a finale show of America's Got Talent, featured on ABC World News Tonight with Diane Sawyer, & reigned as the Las Vegas Queen of Blues from 2009-2013 amongst other accolades. In late 2013, following a health crisis she returned to her roots of St. Louis. In 2018 she debuted "The Lady J Huston Show" at the National Blues Museum & received the NSDAR "Women in the Arts" award which she is a member & genealogist enthusiast. Her shows are electrifying with many surprise elements from her multi-talented band.
